Invitation

“A fantasy travel to your days of school ...”

Invitation

---

fantasy travel

Where would you have gone to “learn in practice”?

Exercise (with a partner)

---

fantasy travel

Where would you have gone to “learn in practice”?

Sites of “Learning in Practice”

---

- almost no restrictions
- *production (skilled work), service (shops etc.)
favoured by many students*
- to be developed: social and cultural institutions (e.g. theatre, community centre, media, public institutions)
- Something you would like to discuss?

Opening up of Productive Situations

---

- the philosophy behind

From activity to education – what is Productive Learning?

Connecting “activity experiences” and “subject-oriented” learning:
“via experiences”

Opening up of Productive Situations

- To support the strong points of the youngsters...

Opening up of Productive Situations

- ... and to develop general education from there

Exercise

---

1. Find your partner
2. Decide for a “site of learning in practice”
3. Start mind-mapping ...

From activity to education – what is Productive Learning?

Connecting “activity experiences” and “subject-oriented” learning:
“straight to the subjects”

Exercise

---

1. Let's have a look at some results
2. How did you “feel” doing so?
3. How do you assess the “applicability” of this method with the students you work with (or: with yourself during the fantasy travel?)

From activity to education – what is Productive Learning?

“Individual Curriculum”: tasks, activities, educational support, results and evaluation/assessment of learning

Individual Learning Plan
goal	steps	results
a	1.	product
b	2.	text

Workshop:
From activity to education – what is Productive Learning?

---

*Planning and support of learning in school and out of school,
Evaluation of the learning process*

- Individual Learning Plan
- Challenge 1: How to support the process of planning, performing and evaluating of learning processes
- Challenge 2 and “hot debate”: evaluation of individual progress and “national standards for competences”

From activity to education – what is Productive Learning?

---

“Hot debate”: evaluation of individual progress and “national standards for competences”

- How is it discussed in your country?
- What is your point of view?

If we have some time left for further reflections...
